Modern Credulity Exposed By a 15th Century Skeptic

City:      Date:

The 15th century Indian philosopher Kabir first rejected Islam and then, later, Hinduism. His poems expose how powerful people manipulate others by directing the courses of other people's imaginations. Today, both advertising and political instigators are everywhere. In the modern world, the understanding of suggestibility is crucial. This new eBook, The Relevance of Kabir, illuminates and expands upon Kabir's words in light of current events using modern examples and ideas.

Considering today's religious hostilities, it is relevant that a poor and uneducated man discovered choices beyond religion. Every day, the media focuses on the worst that religious beliefs have to offer. Due to the rising disillusionment with religion, many people seek refuge in alternative beliefs, consumption of harmful substances or elective surgery. This book explains why pain is inevitable, but suffering is optional. Many bad habits of the mind cause needless misery. When people understand what thinking can and cannot do, they can end the manufactured suffering that is based solely on beliefs.
